

Index to Volume 4

Authors

Barth, Philip 395–415
 Bessa-Rodrigues, Paraskevi 81–98
 Biscop, Sven 253–268
 Blomberg, Jaakko 1–6
 Churchill, Robin 463–483
 Dent, Christopher M. 371–394
 Di Felicianantonio, Susanna 519–536
 Figel, Ján 297–304
 Guild, Elspeth 395–415
 Ilves, Toomas Hendrick 291–295
 Krenzler, Horst G. 153–180
 Logghe, Frederic 63–68
 Mahncke, Dieter 353–369
 Missiroli, Antonio 485–500

Neuwahl, Nanette 37–62
 Nienhaus, Volker 501–518
 O'Keeffe, David 7–36
 Oliveira, Alvaro C. 215–233
 Paasivirta, Esa 305–326
 Peers, Steve 195–214
 Petrov, Roman A. 235–251
 Rynning, Sten 99–119
 Smith, Michael 439–462
 Spinks, Stephen 63–80
 Teunissen, Paul J. 327–352
 Timmermans, Christiaan 181–194
 Wiegand, Gunnar 153–180
 Woolcock, Stephen 439–462

Title

Banana Split: WTO Law and Preferential Agreements in the EC Legal Order, by Steve Peers 195–214
 Community and Member State Competence in External Agreements of the EU, by David O'Keeffe 7–36
 The EU and Public International Law, by Christiaan Timmermans 181–194
 The EU as an International Fisheries Actor – Shark or Miinow?, by Robin Churchill 463–483
 The EU–East Asia Economic Relationship: The Persisting Weak Triadic Link?, by Christopher M. Dent
 EU Foreign Policy and Albania, by Susanna Di Felicianantonio 519–536
 EU Trading with Israel and Palestine: Parallel Legal Frameworks and Triangular Issues, by Esa Paasivirta 305–326

The EU–Turkey Customs Union: a Balance, but No Equilibrium, by Nanette Neuwahl 37–62
 EU–US Issues in International Telecommunications following the WTO Agreement on Basic Telecommunications Sector, by Stephen Spinks and Frederick Logghe 63–80
 EU–US Relations: More than Trade Disputes?, by Horst G. Krenzler and Gunnar Wiegand 153–180
 European Commercial Policy: A Leadership Role in the New Millennium?, by Michael Smith and Stephen Woolcock 439–462
 European Security and Defence: The Case for Setting 'Convergence Criteria', by Antonio Missiroli 485–500
 European Union–MERCOSUL: in Search of a "New" Relationship?, by Paraskevi Bessa-Rodrigues 81–98

French Defence Reforms and European Security: Tensions and Intersections, by Sten Rynning 99–119

Guest Editorial – Challenges in the North of Europe, by Jaakko Blomberg 1–6

Guest Editorial: Estonia, the European Union and the New North, by Toomas Hendrik Ilves 291–295

Guest Editorial: Slovakia's Difficult but Promising Task, by Ján Figel 297–304

Immigrants from Third Countries under EC External Agreements: The Need for Improvement by Alvaro Castro Oliveira 215–233

The Movement of Natural Persons and the GATS; a UK Perspective and European Dilemmas, by Elspeth Guild and Philip Barth 395–415

Subject

Albania
EU foreign policy, and 519–536

Baltic Sea region
EU's impact on 292–293
regional cooperation in 291–295

Banana dispute 195–214
background 195–199
EC law 199–201
interaction between legal systems 201–205 legal effect of WTO law 205–212
preferential agreements 199–201
WTO law 199–201

Challenges in the North of Europe 1–6 agenda for the near future 6 defence of Baltic States 2–3
NATO enlargement 4
northern dimension of EU policies 4–5
role of USA 4
Russia and Baltic States 1–2 integration 3 transition 3

Community and Member State competence in External Relations Agreements of the EU 7–36 competence based on general law-making provisions 23–25

Promoting Development and Stability through a Euro–Mediterranean Free Trade Zone?, by Volker Nienhaus 501–518

Rights of Third Country/Newly Independent States' Nationals to Pursue Economic Activity in the EU, by Roman A. Petrov 235–251

The Role of the USA in Europe: Successful Past but Uncertain Future?, by Dieter Mahncke 353–369

Strengthening the Defence Dimension of the EU: An Evaluation of Concepts, Recent Initiatives and Developments, by Paul J. Teunissen 327–352

The UK's Change of Course: A New Chance for the ESDI, by Sven Biscop 253–268 effect of exclusive competence 25–27 effect of shared competence 34–35 exclusive competence 10–11 express provisions in internal measures 19–20 express provisions in treaty or Acts of Accession 11–12 external competence based on unexercised internal powers 20–23 humanitarian aid and development cooperation 29–32 scope of internal measures 12–19 shared competence 27–35, 32–34

source of Community competence 8–10

Defence dimension of the EU 327–352 change versus continuity 348–349 compromise of Saint Malo 338–340 concepts of European defence cooperation 329–338
'double-hatting' 330–332
European CJTF with European headquarters 332–333
European defence cooperation and NATO's strategic concept 344–349
European defence production and European defence cooperation 345–347
evaluation 349–351

- evaluation of concepts 327–352
- historical overview 328–329
- institutional set-up and political goals 327
- limited defence capability based on WEU 333–334
- NATO communiqué of April 1999 342–344
- recent initiatives and developments 327–352
- strengthening 327–352
- towards a European defence Community 335–338
- UK policy 347
- Development and stability through a Euro–Mediterranean Free Trade Zone 501–518
  - adjustment burdens 511–512
  - cooperation framework 501–505
  - creating a new periphery 515–516
  - economic characteristics of Med-region 505–507
  - effects of Euro–Med free trade 507–511
  - EMFTZ perspective as an obstacle to regional integration 513–515
  - financial protocols to MEDA Regulation 501–505
  - heterogeneity of Med-region 505–507
  - private sector transition 511–512
- Estonia
  - European Union, and 291–295
- Estonia, the EU and the New North 291–295
  - Estonia 294–295
  - EU's impact on Baltic Sea region 291–295
  - new region in new Europe 293–294
  - regional cooperation in Baltic Sea region 291–295
- EU
  - international fisheries actor 463–483
    - access of EC vessels to the 200-mile zones of developing states 474–478
    - community policy-making in external fisheries relations 468–470
      - framework 68–470
      - substance 468–470
  - Community's role in Northwest Atlantic Fisheries Organization 471–474
  - driftnet issues 479–481
  - EC as a shark 470–481
  - international fisheries issues 464–468
  - potential leader in global commercial policy 443–445
  - role of
    - fortress Europe 456–457
    - bloc-builder Europe 458–459
    - bridge-builder Europe 457–458
    - globalizing Europe 459–460
    - world partner Europe 457
- EU and public international law 181–194
  - Community law as a factor of strengthening international law 188–193
  - growing importance of international law for European Communities 184–185
  - more open attitude of court to international law 185–188
  - strive for autonomy 181–184
- EU–East Asia economic relationship 371–394
  - American factor 386–387
  - competition 371–381
  - core Triad powers 372
  - economic exchange 374–377
  - APEC and transpacific axis 385–386
  - EU's new Asia strategy 389–390
  - evolution of ASEM 388–389
  - future determinants of EU–East Asia economic relationship 381–393
  - future EU integration 384–385
  - geo-economics 390–393
  - globalization 390–393
  - impact and legacy of East Asian financial crisis 381–384
  - inter-triad economic exchange 371–381
  - regime diplomacy 371–381
  - territoriality 390–393
  - Triad regions 372–373
  - tripolarized world economy 371–372
  - WTO and new multilateral agenda 387–388
- EU foreign policy and Albania 519–536
  - activating a European response 521–527
  - background 519–521
  - common foreign and security policy 525–527
  - consolidating the CFSP 529–530
  - emergence of coherent regional strategy 532–535
  - European crisis-management 523–525
  - legacy of Kosovo 529–535

- lessons of Albania 529–535
- preference for Community action 527–529
- reconstruction of States 531–532
- EU trading with Israel and Palestine 305–326
  - EC–Israel Interim Agreement on Trade and Trade-Related Matters 306–308
  - EC–PLO Agreement 308–311
  - EU–Israel Association Agreement 306–308
  - Euro–Mediterranean Association Agreement 306–308
  - exports originating from Israeli settlements in the occupied territories 323–326
  - implementation of EC–PLO Agreement 320–321
  - Israel–PLO Protocol on economic relations 317–320
    - third party viewpoint 317–320
  - non-originating orange juice imports to EU 322
  - Palestinian exports under Israeli certificates of origin 323
  - parallel legal frameworks 305–326
  - rules of origin 321–322
  - scope of application of EU Agreements with Israel and the PLO 314–317
  - selected legal issues related to the EU Agreements with Israel and Palestine 311–326
  - status of Palestinian Authority 311–314
  - treaty making by PLO 311–314
  - triangular issues 305–326
- EU–Turkey customs union 37–62
  - application of anti-dumping measures 51–52
  - characteristics of 38–45
  - common commercial policy commercial agreements 57
    - rules of origin 56
  - competition 52–53
  - customs cooperation rules on transit 57
  - deepening of the Customs Union 56–57
  - delayed economic take-off 45–48
  - description of the Agreement 38–39
  - economic benefits 39–41
  - economic drawbacks 39–41
  - evaluation 60–62
  - extension of the Customs Union 55–56
  - further development of relations 53–60
  - government procurement 57
  - ‘institutional void’ 42–45
  - non-implementation of EU’s financial commitments 48–50
  - overall EU strategy and financial regulations 59–60
  - possibility of ‘Trade Wars’ 50–51
  - problems encountered in practice 45–53
  - smoothing of the Customs Union 57–59
    - assistance in harmonization 57–59
    - human rights 58–59
    - industrial cooperation 58
    - investment 58
    - research and development cooperation 58
    - trans-European networks 58
- EU–US issues in international telecommunications 63–80
- Benchmark conditions for market entry and their objectives 75–76
- Benchmark conditions to prevent one-way bypass of the accounting rate regime through ISR 76–77
- compatibility of the Benchmark conditions with the BATS commitments and the GATS obligations 77–80
- FCC’s Benchmark conditions for market access 73–80
- FCC’s benchmarks for settlement rates 65–73
  - accounting rate regime 65–67
  - conclusion on Benchmark settlement rates 72–73
- European Commission’s criticisms and FCC’s responses 68–70
- market developments reducing the impact of the Order on EU operators 70–72
- modalities of the Order 67–68
- objectives of the Order 67–68
- FCC’s removal of the ECO reciprocity test for foreign operator entry into the USA 73–75
- EU–US relations 153–180
  - aims of NTA EU–US foreign policy cooperation 176–178
  - bananas conflict 164–166
  - conflicts 162–169
  - conflicts in EU–US foreign policy

- cooperation 174–176
    - contribution of people-to-people dialogues 169–170
    - creative conflict management 162–169
  - creative conflict management on
    - Helms–Burton Act 166–169
    - differing US and EU policy objectives 172–173
  - economic relations 155–171
  - EU–US cooperation 172–178
  - foreign policy relations 172–178
  - how transatlantic relations should not be managed 164–166
  - impact of economic and monetary union 170–171
  - multilateral trade policy cooperation 160–162
  - new transatlantic economic partnership 156–159
  - outlook 178–180
  - successes in EU–US foreign policy cooperation 174–176
  - trade disputes 153–180
  - US unilateralism 172–178
- European commercial policy 439–462
- challenge of commercial policy in 1990s 440–443
  - implementation 451–455
  - implications 460–462
  - leadership role in new millennium 439–462
  - policy-making 445–451
  - politicized 445–451
  - technocratic 445–451
  - role for EU 456–460
- European security and defence 485–500
- between EMU and Schengen 498–500
  - convergence
    - difficult 485–487
    - economic 487–495
    - institutional 495–498
    - military 487–495
    - necessary 485–487
  - ‘convergence’ 485–500
- European Union. See also EU
- Estonia, and 291–295
- European Union–Mercosul: in search of a ‘new’ relationship 81–98
- additional areas of cooperation 97
  - end of Cold War 82–85
  - EU–MERCOSUL 86–91
  - historical background 82
  - MERCOSUL 85–86
  - obstacles to the dialogue 91–93
  - on trade and economic cooperation 89–91
  - political links and inter-institutional cooperation 86–89
  - role of development 93–97
- External Relations Agreements of the EU
- Community and Member State competence in 7–36
- French defence reforms and European security: tensions and intersections 99–119
- dilemmas in French Security and defence policy 113–118
  - France and NATO 116–118
  - from Maastricht to Amsterdam 108–110
  - increasing capacity for collective security 100–107
  - mirage of European defence policy 107–109
  - mobile and professional forces 101–105
  - nuclear weapons 105–107
  - problems in Franco-German pairing 114–116
  - Western European Union 110–113
- Movement of natural persons and GATS 395–415
- commitment to MFN treatment 400–401
  - European dilemmas 395–415
  - GATS concept of services and their supply 398–400
  - going for GATS 397–398
  - market access 401–402
  - movement of persons 403–405
  - national treatment 401–402
- UK implementation of GATS with regard to the movement of natural persons 405–413
- additional benefits 411–413
  - horizontal commitments in respect of mode 4 supply 405–406
  - intra-corporate transferees 406–407, 411–412
  - sales representatives 407–410, 412
  - sector specific commitments 411

- service contracts in specified sectors 412–413
    - specific commitments by UK 405
    - UK perspective 395–415
  - New chance for the ESDI 253–268.
    - See also* UK's change of course
  - Rights of Third Country/Newly Independent States' Nationals 235–251
    - anticipation of direct effect of the provisions of future cooperation agreements 249–250
    - basic freedoms under EU primary legislation 237–238
    - basic freedoms under EU secondary legislation 237–238
    - basic freedoms on the stability of the integration process 250
    - establishment rights 241–243
      - as employees of an EU company 241–242
      - under the provisions of PCAs 242–243
    - extension of Cassis doctrine 248–249
    - PCAs and direct effect 245–247
    - PCA's and the rights of NIS
      - nationals under EU law 239
    - possible solutions to extending the rights of Third Country nationals 248–250
    - potential rights in future cooperation agreements 247–250
    - rights to enter and work in EU 240–241
    - scope of legal rights under EU law 237–239
    - to pursue economic activity in the EU 235–251
    - to supply services according to the case law of the ECJ 244–245
    - to supply services temporarily in the EU 43–245
    - to supply services under the PCAs 243–244
    - unfair discrimination of Third Country nationals 247
  - Slovakia's difficult but promising task 297–304
    - leaving the past behind 298–299
    - 1998 elections 299–300
    - 1999 – year of hope 300–302
    - return to Europe 297–298
    - utilizing pre-accession tools 302–303
  - Third country immigrants under EC
    - external agreements 215–233
  - Agreements' social rules in the context of a European immigration policy 230–232
  - Bozkurt case 220–221
    - facts 220–221
    - ruling 220–221
    - ruling, comments on 221–226
  - case of social security coordination 228–230
  - need for a more comprehensive approach 219–226
  - need for improvement 219–230
  - need for more clarity 226–228
  - need for more equality 228–230
  - overview of agreements and their social rules 216–219
  - protection of human rights 219–226
  - right of residence 219–226
- UK's change of course 253–268
    - Amsterdam Treaty, stagnation 253–255
    - need for reflection 264–266
    - opportunities for France to move ahead 259–260
    - opportunities for Germany to move ahead 259–260
    - options for scope and contents of the ESDI 260–263
    - question of unequal membership 263–264
    - reversal of British position 256–259
  - USA's role in Europe 353–369
    - common interests and economic interaction 355
    - development since 1945 355–359
    - European capability 364–366
    - foundations of European–American relations 354
    - larger Europe 367–368
    - new role for Europe 359–361
    - new role for NATO 361–364
  - WTO Agreement on Basic Telecommunications
    - EU–US issues in international telecommunications, following 63–80
  - WTO law and preferential agreements in EC legal order.
    - See also* Banana dispute 195–214