

EDITORIAL

Editorial

The Year-End Issue, 2024

In completing this nineteenth year of the Global Trade & Customs Journal (GTCJ), we are pleased to share three collections of timely articles.

First, with gratitude to Stephanie Noel of the Editorial Board, we have a section devoted to trade and sustainability.

Next, we include articles addressing artificial intelligence and international trade, thanks to Fernando Pierola, of the Editorial Board, and his colleague at the Advisory Centre on WTO Law (ACWL), Tatiana Yanguas.

Third, Juan David BarbSosa, also of the Editorial Board, brings us articles on rules of origin in Latin America.

These timely contributions reflect the topics on the mind of practitioners, and these topics will continue to be a focus of the GTCJ in 2025 and beyond.

We welcome submissions from practitioners, for practitioners, on these and other important current topics.

A big thank you to all those who help make the GTCJ a success.

*Jeff Snyder,
Washington, DC.
August 2024.*